No-Fee Pet License for a Service Animal

Animal Services does not certify an animal as a “service animal.” We provide a no-fee pet license for a dog whose owner stipulates that it is his/her service animal, required because of his/her disability (or disability of signee’s legal dependent.)

As of March 15, 2011, the Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA) defines a "service animal" as a dog that has been individually trained to do work or perform tasks for the benefit of an individual with a disability. The rule states that other animals, whether wild or domestic, do not qualify as service animals. Dogs that are not trained to perform tasks that mitigate the effects of a disability, including dogs that are used purely for emotional support, are not service animals.

By signing this form, the signee attests that the animal listed meets the definition of a “service animal” as defined by the ADA and is required because of his/her disability (or disability of signee’s legal dependent.)

I have read the above information and acknowledge that the animal I am licensing meets the ADA definition of a “service animal” and is required because of my disability or disability of my legal dependent.
